DISCOVERY'S GENERAL MANAGER'S ROOTS ARE IN THE CARIBBEAN

Miami, FL... Hanns J. Hahn, The General Manager of Discovery Cruise Line, has deep roots in the Caribbean. Prior to taking the helm at Discovery, Hahn spent over thirty years in the cruise industry and has experience in virtually every island in the Greater and Lesser Antilles. At one point he was responsible for the operation of three vessels home-ported in Montego Bay, Jamaica. His career continued to expand and Hahn spent three years in the operations and management in the cruise industry in the Far East and Europe. He returned to his first love, the Caribbean, when recruited to join Discovery Cruise Line.

Discovery, which has been the major cruise line to Grand Bahama Island for the past seventeen years, provides daily cruise ferry service to and from South Florida to the island. The cruise line has carried more than four million passengers to date with its capacity of 1200 passengers per sailing. Discovery operates with all the amenities of a longer cruise during its daily operation and requires tremendous management both shipside and in operations to accomplish this.

Discovery's parent company, Apollo Ship Chandlers, is one of the leading maritime caterers in the world and provides the line with award-winning cuisine as a member of the Confrerie de La Chaine des Rotisseurs gourmet society, the oldest and most prestigious society of its kind in the world. Discovery has won numerous awards including Spain-U.S. Chamber of Commerce Company of the Year and has received multiple Cacique Awards from The Islands of the Bahamas for providing the best cruise services.

Hahn, who has first-hand experience working with Apollo Ship Chandlers during his career at other lines, knew the quality of operation and service it is known for. "Coming from a traditional three to seven day cruise product to a one-day product was a big career decision for me. The challenge to fill Discovery's ship every day instead of once or twice a week is enormous."

Discovery's roundtrip cruise includes three lavish buffet meals, on board entertainment, a full service casino with slots, blackjack, craps and roulette, shops, meeting space, and a swimming pool. The Discovery Sun has seven passenger decks with a weight of 9,903 tons.

Discovery's two main products are its daily cruise to Grand Bahama, which provides passengers with the cruise experience plus the opportunity to spend a few hours on Grand Bahama, and Discovery Cruise' N Stay Resort Vacations. Far from being just a cruise ferry, Discovery books vacation packages for its passengers at most resorts on island as well as excursions to the island's many interesting attractions.
